

DRAWING THE LINES

A national political cartooning competition for schools 2008

Lemming07: Ann Plummer, Dickson College, ACT —first prize, secondary schools, 2007

Up to $5000 in prizes for students and schools

The National Museum of Australia explores the land, nation and people of Australia. It celebrates Australian social history in a unique way by revealing the stories of ordinary and extraordinary Australians, promoting the exploration of knowledge and ideas and providing a dynamic forum for discussion and reflection.

Students are invited to participate in a national political cartooning competition for upper primary and secondary school students, in conjunction with the Museum's annual exhibition Behind the Lines: The Year's Best Cartoons.

Students must submit a black and white or colour cartoon, on A4 paper, dealing with a recent political issue of national significance. Winner, runner-up and highly commended prizes will be awarded to students in upper primary and secondary school categories. There will also be awards in both categories for the class with the best overall entry. A selection of the best entries will be displayed on the National Museum's website.

Entries must be postmarked on or before 17 October 2008.

Competition details, including entry forms and conditions of entry, are available from our website: www.nma.gov.au/education. If you have any questions, please contact Alan Maskell, Senior Education Officer, National Museum of Australia on (02) 6208 5032 or amaskell@nma.gov.au.
